HOLD-UPS SHOOT EXPRESS DRIVER; HE DRIVES ON

DRIVER OF MONEY WAGON SHOT BY HOLD-UPS WHO ORDER HIM TO PULL UP; HE DRIVES ON Five Men in Stolen Auto Waylay Horse Drawn Vehicle Carrying Cash.

ONE SHOOT'S TWICE.

Bullets Land in Leg of Frey, Who Held Reins, but He Fails to Pull Up Team.

A daring attempt to hold up a heavily guarded money wagon of the American Express Company was made to-day when the driver of the wagon on Park Avenue, near the ferry, at Weehawken, N. J., was shot by five hold-ups, and the driver, who was wounded in the leg, drove away with the treasure.

The robbers, who had ranged along the side of the wagon in a stolen car, and dropped one of their number in front of it to bring it to a halt, picked up the driver and the road after the latter had emptied his revolver at the driver of the wagon. Then they sped away.

Two other men were on the seat of the express wagon, supposedly armed for guard duty. They failed to return the shots.

The wagon was en route from the Hudson Terminals in Jersey City to the First National Bank of Guttenberg, with $150,000 in currency.

The wagon was driven by Jacob Frey, No. 6 Sherman Avenue, and was accompanied by Henry Carroll, No. 150 Second Street, and Arthur Balth, No. 104 York Street, all of Jersey City.

As the wagon, drawn by two powerful horses, had started up a steep incline on Park Avenue, opposite Hauxhurst Avenue, when the automobile containing five men ran ahead and stopped. One man, revolver in hand, jumped to the road and shouted to the driver: "Hold up your hands."

Frey responded by bringing the wagon sharply down on the backs of the horses, who leaped forward and started up the grade at a gallop. As the wagon shot by the man in the road, the latter shot twice. The hammer snapped on a defective shell in the third attempt. Two bullets had killed.

The holdup took place in the presence of a number of spectators who during the firing dashed behind whatever offered protection. As soon as Frey had brought his horses to a stop, Carroll jumped down, striped the horses from one of the horses and rode to the Weehawken Police Station for assistance.

Without attempting to follow the wagon the men in the auto quickly hauled the fifth man into the car, made their way to the Hackensack Plank Road by way of Pleasant Avenue, four of the men leaving at Pleasant Avenue. The fifth abandoned the car near Palisade Avenue.

Frey drove to a point, where he could be relieved, and was taken to the North Hudson Hospital.

The car was found shortly after.

STEAMER CALLAO REPORTS ALL O. K. BY RADIO TO-DAY

Making Slow Progress, but Captain Says Everything "Satisfactory."

NORTH OF WEST INDIES.

Lack of Previous Report Probably Due to Congestion of Wireless Communications.

Word was received to-day at the office of the Munson line from the Shipping Board Steamship Callao, off whom wireless of four Government agencies had been groping over the Atlantic for twenty-four hours there was fear she was to be added to the catalogue of missing ships, possibly the prey of the pirates whose raids have been suspected by the imagination as a cause for recent unexplained losses to Atlantic shipping.

The message was by radio direct from the Callao, the first to be received since she left Rio de Janeiro, June 29 or 31. It was signed by Capt. Sheridan, and read:

"Noon, July 6. Latitude 22° North; Longitude 58° 25' West. Expect arrive New York 8 P. M. July 11. Conditions satisfactory. SHERIDAN."

The delay in transmitting yesterday's noon position was attributed to the wireless congestion during daylight hours, which leads skippers from port to port to delay their reports until night.

The position indicated shows that the Callao is making progress unusually slow, as yesterday she was a little north of the West Indies.

The Arlington Wireless station, the most powerful on this continent, has been rolling out call after call over the ocean for two days for the Callao without so much as a "tick" in response.

From Miami Naval Communications has been questioning all ships with a radius with inquiries for the Callao, without results. The Brooklyn Navy Yard early this morning began reaching southward to complement the work of Miami and Arlington and was instructed to alternate direct calls for the Callao with requests to all ships to report whether they had seen the ship anywhere on her voyage.

Anxiety, irrespective of the vague pirate theory, was added by the knowledge that the Callao is following the same course on which the Naval College Cyclops set out in 1918, never to be heard from.

The Department of Commerce, it was asserted to-day from Washington, is a firm adherent to the probability of the presence of pirates off the North Atlantic Coast. Its investigations have been quietly conducted because of the ridicule and contempt with which the adherents of the piracy explanation for the loss of ships recently have been met. But the courage of the convictions of Commissioner Chamberlain were greatly strengthened by the report of Capt. Giles of the Munson liner Munatiro, who came into port with

MUST PAY TAX ON MONEY LOST IN BETS

Appellate Division Holds Losers Cannot Be Taken From Income Returns.

ALBANY, July 8.—The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in a decision announced to-day held that losses suffered in betting on horse races cannot be deducted from the New York State income tax returns.

The decision affirmed the State Comptroller in rejecting a deduction claim of $2,000 made by Gustave Konigsvald of New York, who he reported he lost on horse races.

Konigsvald claimed his losses were deductible under the allowing deduction of losses suffered in a transaction entered into for profit, though not connected with the trade or business of the taxpayer.

The court also allowed her $27,500 attorneys' fees and $12,500 to gather evidence in her fight against the suit for divorce brought by her millionaire husband, J. Stanley Joyce.

HOPES TO LOCATE KIDNAPPED BABY BEFORE NIGHTFALL

Pompton Lake Police Chief Says He Believes the Torrens Child Is Safe.

Clues as to the whereabouts of Arthur J. Torrens and three companions, who forcibly took the nine-month-old daughter of Torrens from the home of her grandfather, James Simpson, at Pompton Lakes, called Chief of Police Miller of Pompton Lakes to Greenwood Lake on the New Jersey-New York line this afternoon. The chief said a posse of detectives had spent the night at Greenwood Lake searching in vain for the men and the child and had returned home.

From Greenwood Lake this afternoon Chief Miller told The Evening World that he had received information from Patterson which led him to believe that the men had left the baby in what they believed a safe hiding place and were seeking their own safety in flight. He said he had hopes of restoring the child to her mother by night.

The kidnapers drove away from the Simpson home in a conspicuously new redish brown touring car with bright wire wheels, for which Torrens obtained a license July 1 numbered No. 226-451. N. J. Many persons have told of seeing the car since the invasion of the Simpson home.

Mr. Simpson, who is head of the silk manufacturing firm of James Simpson & Co. and director of the City Trust Company of Paterson and the Paterson Bridge Company, declares he will not pay ransom, but that he will, if necessary, spend his last cent to capture the kidnapers, whom he describes as "murderous bandits."

The Torrenses were married two years ago against the wishes of the bride's parents. When they parted Mrs. Torrens went to live with her parents and the husband came to New York. Recently the Simpsons moved to the summer home, Mrs. Torrens accompanying them.

Mrs. Torrens was in the kitchen ironing at noon yesterday. A man appeared at the screen door. She said he was big and dark and looked like an Italian. He stepped into the kitchen and caught hold of her, throwing her to the floor, where he held her with one hand over her mouth. Behind him were three other men. One of them, Mrs. Torrens asserted, was her husband.

Mrs. Simpson was in the dining room and the child was on an upstairs sleeping porch, clad only in underclothes. Torrens, his wife says, ran upstairs, seized the child and returned to the kitchen, when all four men ran to an automobile in front of the house and drove away. Mrs. Simpson was aroused by the noise in the kitchen and reached the door between the two rooms just as the men ran out. She and her daughter ran out and called for help.

August Beck, a road inspector, at work near the entrance of a private road to the house, saw the car. As he started toward it he saw a red automobile with white wire wheels go toward Paterson.

There were four men in the car, he told the police, one driving, another in the back seat and two others, one on each running board. P

HARDING'S APPEAL TO SENATORS WAS TO PUSH ECONOMY

President Realizes What May Happen Congressionally at Next Elections.

FEW SENATORS FOR SELF

Several Want to Come Back and Don't Care if Their Acts Cost Nation a Billion.

By David Laurence (Special Correspondent of The Evening World).

WASHINGTON, July 8 (Copyright, 1921).—President Harding has at last thrust himself into the Congressional situation in the hope of leading his party from the aimless paths it has been travelling into roads that will mean party achievement instead of personal aggrandizement.

Mr. Harding's visit to the Senate is the big topic of conversation in the national capital to-day. He did not offend his former colleagues. He did not kindle the fires of sensitiveness about Executive encroachment as sometimes was the case with his predecessor. He made it more of a fraternal visit—an appeal to the Senate to help the Executive keep his pledge of economy and retrenchment.

Mr. Harding's words, spoken in the informality of the Capitol, atmosphere, can do much more good than formal conferences at the White House. The President went to the Senate principally to urge that action on the Bonus Bill be deferred. He has for some days been uneasy about it, believing that such a measure would at one fell stroke undo all that Gen. Dawes and the Budget Bureau can do in five years.

But the significant and outstanding fact about Mr. Harding's trip to the Capitol is that it was necessary at all. Why was the Bonus Bill ever reported out of committee? Much encumbrance would have been exacted if Mr. Harding if the measure had been ordered to repose in committee.

Certain members of the Senate up to resolution next time could not see it that way. They felt they had to make a gesture even though some other force actually defeated the proposal later on. It is another case of one or two men who are so eager to be re-elected that they would not hesitate to saddle the country with an

ARMED TUGS AND PLANES HUNT BANDITS ON LAKE

Machine Guns Used in Chase of Bank Robbers in Motor Boat.

CLEVELAND, July 8.—A battle on the lake between six bandits who escaped in a stolen motor yacht after robbing the Marine National Bank of Ashland, Ohio, of $25,000 and $7,000 was expected to-day if any of the pursuit boats should sight the rascals.

The pursuit is being made in tug equipped with machine guns and a rain of revolvers bullets after blotting up the bank and driving to the lake shore in a stolen auto.

In the running fight between citizens and the fleeing bandits two persons were slightly wounded.

SINN FEIN AND UNIONISTS CONFER WITH DE VALERA

KING GEORGE MAY SUMMON DE VALERA FOR A CONFERENCE

London Hears Such a Report Following Sir James Craig's Visit To-Day.

KING KEEPS IN TOUCH.

Is Constantly Informed of Progress of the Negotiations.

LONDON, July 8 (United Press).—King George appears to have suddenly assumed the role of principal mediator in the present Irish negotiations. The King received Sir James Craig, Premier of the Ulster Parliament, at Buckingham Palace to-day.

Following by only a day his conference with Jan Smuts, Premier of South Africa and intermediary in the negotiations, King George's action was regarded as deeply significant.

Unconfirmed reports were immediately circulated that Eamon De Valera, President of the "Irish Republic" would be the next important figure to be invited to Buckingham Palace. The King, it was pointed out, really took the first step toward bringing about the present negotiations when, in opening the Ulster Parliament recently, he pleaded for peace in Ireland, asking the people of the island to "leave and forget."

It is known that King George has been constantly informed of the progress of the negotiations and, following yesterday's conference with Gen. Smuts, it was announced that the proposed London conference, in which De Valera and Unionist representatives will meet Premier Lloyd George, would be held at Buckingham Palace.

CROW, ELECTROCUTED, SET FIRE TO HAYFIELD.

Only by Hard Work Was Loss of Several Thousands Prevented.

ROCHESTER, July 8.—A narrow escape from a heavily charged electric wire on the Niagara Power Company yesterday was by a lightning bolt which struck a flying hawk into a field of hay belonging to Robert Stahl, near Spencertown, eight miles from here.

The bird caught fire, causing a loss of several hundred dollars and for a time threatened adjoining wheat fields, whose crops are estimated to be worth several thousands. The Spencertown Chemical Company made the three-mile run to the Stahl place and prevented further damage.

No Military or Police Guard Mansion House, Only Men Wearing American Flags in Buttonholes—Irish "President" Is Cheered.

DUBLIN, July 8 (Associated Press).—The conference between Irish Republicans and Southern Unionists called by Eamon De Valera, the Republican leader, begun in Dublin July 4, was resumed here to-day.

As the conference proceeded the crowd in the streets at intervals recited the rosary and the litany and joined in prayers.

An interesting feature was the absence of both the police and the military. Only two policemen were in evidence, and the crowd was regulated by volunteers wearing small American flags in their buttonholes.

Irish ballads were sung by boy vocalists at intervals as the people awaited news from the peace deliberations, and at one point a procession was organized which revolved about the near neighborhood.

The personnel of the conference was the same as that of Monday—Mr. De Valera, Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein, and four of the Southern Unionists, Earl Middleton, Sir Maurice Dockrell, Sir Robert Henry Woods and Andrew Jameson.

MANY ARE KILLED IN NIGHT FIGHT IN BELFAST STREETS

Sinn Feiners Reported to Have Suffered Great Loss in Attack.

BELFAST, July 8 (Associated Press).—The Union Street and Kent Street areas of Belfast were the scene of wild excitement at midnight last night, heavy firing going on for twenty minutes. A constable was mortally wounded and the Sinn Feiners engaged in the hostilities are reported to have suffered heavily.

Many dead bodies are said by the police to have been carried into houses nearby.

The trouble started when a police searching party called at a house in the district. Fire was opened upon the party, and in response to a police hurry call, reinforcements were rushed up. A battle ensued, and the police were fired at from street corners as well as from houses which had been picketed to guard against surprises from the Crown forces.

The official review of happenings in Ireland, issued by the authorities in Dublin Castle to-day for the week ending July 4, says the Crown forces suffered forty casualties, which was slightly below the average.

Fourteen policemen were killed and twenty wounded, the review says, while one soldier was killed and five wounded. There were twenty-five ambushes, and eight murders of civilians attributed to the Sinn Fein. Arrests numbered ninety-six and there were sixty-one courts martial. Those interned now number 3,284.
